LOST WALLS : Graffiti Road Trip in Tunisia El Seed

Lost or forgotten were the walls that now proudly carry the messages of calligraphiti artist eL Seed. "Lost Walls," his first book, beautifully and poetically documents these walls, handpicked during his road trip around Tunisia. "Lost Walls" is a calligraphiti journey of discovery for eL Seed, who chronicles the painting of 24 walls in four weeks. Inspired by the reaction to his largest project to date, the minaret of the Jara mosque in his ancestral home of Gabes, eL Seed decided to set out on this month-long personal journey across his motherland, painting "lost" walls along the way. This book provides unique and rare insight into the world of calligraphiti and the Tunisian people.

Présentation de l'éditeur

The French-Tunisian Calligraffiti artist El Seed takes a road trip through Tunisia. After painting his amazing art on the highest minaret in the country, at the Jara Mosque in Gabes, El Seed decides to go on a journey through Tunisia to meet the different people and tribes that make up the country's rich and diverse culture. On a Calligraffiti road trip, El Seed tells us the stories of anonymous people from various places around the country. Lost Walls talks about those walls and places that have witnessed the history, life and culture of a people for millennia.
